In vehicles having conventional wheelchairs, the front wheels are often oriented or mounted to the vehicle rear ends for wheelchairs that are intended to roll behind the vehicle. In such wheelchairs, the operator or rider must move to the rear of the vehicle and position the wheelchair behind the vehicle to attach or tow the wheelchair with a conventional tow vehicle. More modern wheelchairs are intended to be used with a vehicle such as a wheelchair vehicle which includes a motive power unit such as an internal combustion engine and an exhaust system that generates noise and may be objectionable to the vehicle operator or a nearby occupant. Accordingly, if a conventional wheelchair is to be used in a vehicle, the operator is limited to accessing and using the conventional wheelchair in a prescribed area of the vehicle. that he may or may not have, for that is a matter to be determined by the trier of fact. 3. Finally, the appellant argues that the trial court erred in admitting into evidence certain photographs depicting the victim at the time of his death. The photographs were taken as the body was being autopsied at the hospital, and they were part of the medical record. These photographs were admitted over the objection of defense counsel on the grounds that they were highly inflammatory. See Rule 901(a), Ala.R.Evid. See, also, Rule 901(b)(4), Ala. R. Evid. The trial court's ruling on the admissibility of photographs is within the discretion of the trial court, and that decision will be reversed on appeal only for abuse of that discretion. King v. State, 595 So.2d 539 (Ala.Cr.App. 1991). We find no abuse of discretion in this case. For the foregoing reasons, the judgment of the trial court is affirmed. AFFIRMED. All the Judges concur. out to those who ask, as the Apostles did; and I know that such as suffer shipwreck for Christ's sake will not lose heart. (1) I am sure we all can see at least one of the problems with this verse and I think we would all agree that it is a highly inflated and wishful thought. For starters, Jesus is not here speaking to us, nor are we in his presence. Secondly, the problem of shipwreck is that there are no survivors. 82157476af
